Calvert County Museums and Library Partner to Present “At The Water’s Edge” Lecture Series

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. – July 21, 2017 – Step back in time with “At The Water’s Edge,” a new lecture series highlighting how people enjoyed leisure time on the Chesapeake Bay from 1890 through the 1970s. These programs span across Calvert County from the north to the south beginning this September through April 2018 and are made possible by joint efforts of the Bayside History Museum, Calvert Library, Calvert Marine Museum and the Chesapeake Beach Railway Museum.

In the late 19th century, Calvert County saw a major transformation in the use of local waters and shoreline – from a place of work to a place of play. These years witnessed a decline in the numbers of people making a living on the water, combined with rapid growth in recreational boating. Fishing, boating and get-away amusements became popular with a burgeoning middle class. Steamboats, trains from the Chesapeake Beach Railway and improved roads for automobiles brought destination recreation on the bay and along Calvert’s waterways within reach for an ever-increasing number of visitors.

The lecture series features 12 opportunities to explore this unique history:

Thursday, Sept. 14, 2017

7-8 p.m. at the Calvert Marine Museum

“African American Leisure Destinations around Washington, D.C.” presented by Patsy Mose Fletcher; lecture provided by Calvert Marine Museum
